UPROAR AT RAILWAY STATION.

OFFICIALS FLY BEFORE ANGRY STUDENTS.

RIOT JUST AVERTED.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT).

Shanghai, Sept. 29. SHANGHAI NORTH railway station was the scene of a tremendous uproar late last night when 3,000 militant anti-Japanese students were refused passage by special train after purchasing their tickets.

The tickets had been purchased prior to the receipt of instructions from President Chiang Kai-shek to the Municipality of Greater Shanghai that the students were to be prevented from travelling to Nanking.

For some time, Bedlam broke loose. The students raved and stormed and made bitter speeches, attacked several of the station officials, the bulk of whom had, however, fled.

They had already begun to damage station property and were threatening to break up the entire place if they were prevented from going when permission for them to travel was at length obtained and dangerous situation was narrowly averted.

The students were desirous of going to Nanking, they said, to petition the Government to take steps to throw the Japanese out of Manchuria.

They were in a fairly good-humoured mood until informed that the tickets had been sold under a misapprehension and that they could not be allowed to travel. For some time, an ugly situation threatened.

Colonel Chen, the chief of the Bureau of Public Safety, rushed to the station and pleaded with the students not to insist upon going to Nanking.

The students grew increasingly angry as he addressed them and eventually he agreed to communicate with Chiang Kai-shek. An hour or so later, he informed the students that permission had been obtained for them to proceed.

During the interval, they roamed about seeking railway officials, who had fled and threatening to break up the whole station. They departed at 1.30 a.m. this morning by a special train.

Wang's Dismissal Demanded. The original ban was, of course, the result of the grave attack by WORLD FINANCE CRISIS.

London, Sept. 28. Denmark will abandon the gold standard tomorrow, according to a report from Copenhagen. Financial circles in the Danish capital state that the Government will introduce a Bill in Parliament to-morrow giving effect to a decision to suspend the gold standard, and also reducing the percentage of the metallic cover for Danish currency from 50 per cent. to 33 1/3 per cent.

The Mark is also threatened, judging by a report from Berlin, stating that the Reichsbank is fixing quotations for foreign exchanges as from to-morrow.

The Berlin Stock Exchange will remain closed indefinitely. These decisions were taken at the request of the Prussian Government by the Cabinet of the Reich acting in consultations with the President of the Reichsbank.

Fall of Guilder. A message from Amsterdam says that the Netherlands Bank has informed bankers and brokers that gold will be held at their disposal in view of the rise of the franc in relation to the guilder.—Reuter.

The local exchange market was rather erratic this morning and although the official rate remained unchanged at 1s. 2d., there were sellers at the opening at 1s. 3 1/2/16d. Business was done both at that rate and at 1/2.

The Shanghai market was a bit easier. Speculators, who are heavily overbought, are trying to cover.

LOCAL SITUATION EASIER.

MILITARY PATROLS REDUCED IN YAUMATI.

FREQUENT and heavy downpours of rain this morning effectively dampened the ardour, if any remains, of anti-Japanese agitators and demonstrators in the principal storm-centres and police reports from all stations may be summarised as "All Quiet."

The only serious incidents officially reported since Sunday have been from areas previously unaffected. Startling allegations regarding the alleged disappearance of cargo coolies aboard the Asama Maru are contained in the vernacular newspapers this morning but on enquiry we were informed by the N.Y.K. that there is not an atom of truth in these stories, which have caused much indignation among the Japanese community.

MURDER CHARGES AT KOWLOON.

Yaumati, and the mainland in general, was perfectly normal to-day and no overnight trouble had been experienced. European police officers still patrol the streets in Yaumati, armed with Greenie guns but it has been found possible to reduce the military guard at Sincere's, only one Highlander remaining on picket duty.

The arrest of two Chinese girls was made last night, and they appeared before the Magistrate this morning.

The police are now beginning to feel confident that the demonstrators have been sufficiently impressed to prevent any further serious trouble, though vigilance and precautions are being strictly maintained.

Wanchai Situation. Further trouble is feared in Wanchai, where, although Japanese nationals have left, a number of shops believed to stock Japanese goods, have received attention from agitators.

A Chinese shop at No. 60, Queen's Road East, has been warned, either by notice sent in or at a visit by agitators, not to sell Japanese goods and to throw out into the street those they have in stock.

In consequence of the report, the area is being strongly patrolled.

More Casualties. Struck on the left foot by a stone thrown while he was helping to quell a riot on Saturday night at the M. H. K. canteen, a Chinese P. P. Lai Tsh-tan, found it necessary to go into the Kowloon Hospital yesterday in consequence of the injury having developed seriously.

Following his admission into the Government Civil Hospital after being shot by Chief Inspector P. Grant in the riots at Shaukiwan last night, Chan San, aged 19, was operated upon for the removal of the bullet which entered his left side. The condition of the patient is reported to be serious.

Women and Girls Molested. The molestation of Chinese women and girls in streets, coupled with their being subjected to a sort of third degree with regard to the clothing they wear, in all cases culminating in a warning to keep off Japanese materials, is another phase in the situation noticed to-day. Those behind the agitation for a complete economic boycott have, as usual, not appeared in person, but, in the cases reported, have employed street urchins to harass well-dressed women and girls.

At Cause Road, shortly before ten o'clock this morning, women were stopped by a gang of small boys and had their dresses considerably pawed and almost ruined by the dirty impress of unwashed hands. This went on for some time before a police officer in plain clothes appeared. He was able to make an arrest, that of a 13-year-old boy who was subsequently taken to the Central Police Station and his name put on the charge-sheet.

TSANG FOO VILLA TRAGEDY.

12 Chinese Accused of Murder.

In connexion with the tragic happening near Kowloon City on Saturday evening, when six Japanese were murdered by an incensed mob, twelve Chinese were arraigned before Mr. Fraser at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning on a charge of murder.

The charge against all defendants was that they did "voluntarily kill and murder one Miyo Yawashita at Tsang Foo Villas, on September 26, 1931."

The following is a full list of the defendants:

- (1) Wong Hong, 25, gardener.
- (2) Lai Tung-hoi, 19, gardener.
- (3) Tsang Cheung, 22, gardener.
- (4) Cheung Kam-chi, 20, school-boy.
- (5) Wong Ka-hung, 16, student.
- (6) Ho Tim-yau, 15, coolie.
- (7) Lau Fat, 20, unemployed.
- (8) Cheung Lung-pak, 70, unemployed.
- (9) Yuen Yau-hong, 63, master of On Cheung noodle factory.
- (10) Tse Lim-wan, 48, coolie.
- (11) Tam Cheung, 26, gardener.
- (12) Yiu Kam, 25, gardener.

GENERAL ELECTION PROSPECTS.

London, Sept. 28.

The Prime Minister will, on Wednesday, in the House of Commons, announce the date when the present session of Parliament will be brought to an end.

It is generally assumed that within the next few days arrangements for an appeal to the electorate will be announced and the Dominions Secretary, Mr. J. H. Thomas, on his return to London to-day said he did not think such an appeal could be long delayed.

He expressed the belief that the Prime Minister would lead the National Government supporters in an election campaign.

Mr. Ramsay MacDonald during the week-end which he spent at Chequers, subjected the whole political situation to a very careful examination. It is understood he is convinced that it demands the largest possible measure of national unity in support of a Government provided with full power to take whatever measures may be deemed necessary.

This evening, the Prime Minister presided at a cabinet meeting which was held in his room at the House of Commons.—British Wireless.

Less Likelihood of Election. London, Sept. 29.

The question of the dissolution of Parliament will probably be settled to-day. The possibility of an early general election seems to have receded following the Prime Minister's statement of his attitude yesterday.—Reuter.

MANCHURIA CRISIS.

Long Argument at Geneva.

MASSACRE TALE DENIED.

Geneva, Sept. 28.

A calm and more peaceful atmosphere now prevails in League circles in connexion with the Manchurian crisis, though the public sitting of the Council this afternoon was again crowded to overflowing.

The proceedings were opened by Senior Lemay, who made a statement of the recent developments, and referred to the mob attack in Nanking upon Dr. C. T. Wang, expressing the unanimous sympathy of the Council.

Mr. Yoshizawa, who is Japan's chief representative at Geneva to-day and who was Minister in Peking from 1923-1929, deplored the occurrences in Nanking. Mr. Wang, he said, was a personal friend, for whom he had the greatest admiration and esteem. He expressed his warmest sympathy.

Calming Public Opinion.

Dr. Alfred Sze thanked the Council for their expression of sympathy and added that his Government was making every effort to calm public opinion. He thanked Mr. Yoshizawa for his kind words.

Mr. Yoshizawa then read a long statement, in the course of which he said he desired to bring the Council's attention to the fact that the Japanese Government was receiving pressing appeals from nationals in Northern Manchuria and Chientao, asking for protection by Japanese troops.

Although the position of these nationals was disquieting, the Japanese Government, in its desire not to aggravate the situation, had not thought it advisable to respond to these appeals. He was further pleased to announce that the withdrawal of troops from the occupied zones was proceeding.

He added that Colonel Thornhill, the British Military Attaché at Peking, was following the evacuation, and concluded by saying that his Government would not fail to keep the Council well-informed of the measures taken for the rapid solution.

Chinese Offer Compromise.

Dr. Alfred Sze said he had heard the statement with great interest, especially the reference to the withdrawal of troops, but he would have been happier if the troops had all been withdrawn.

In a spirit of conciliation, he abandoned the request for the despatch of a Commission of Inquiry, composed of neutrals, and suggested as a compromise that the Council assist in the settlement of

CHINESE STUDIES.

SCHOOL OPENED AT UNIVERSITY.

GOVERNOR'S ADDRESS.

"In my opinion, it is unthinkable that the study of Chinese classics should ever be put on the shelf and neglected. Their ethical value is very great, and their effect in this respect on China in the past is a matter for the student of history. I.E. the Governor, Sir William Peel, yesterday afternoon when he performed the opening ceremony of the Tang Chi Ngong School of Chinese studies.

The new school building, situated on a quiet hillside away from the roadway and surrounded by trees, is the result of a scheme formulated in 1928 by the then Governor, Sir Cecil Clementi, and the University authorities for developing the Chinese syllabus of the University into a Chinese Department or a Chinese Faculty.

The opening ceremony was attended by a large and distinguished gathering. Amongst those present besides I.E. the Governor were Lady Peel, Prof. K. H. Digby (Acting Vice-Chancellor of the University), Hon. Mr. W. E. L. Shenton, Hon. Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Kotewall, Hon. Sir Shouson Chow, Hon. Mr. S. W. Tso, Hon. Mr. H. T. Cressy, His Lordship the Right Reverend Bishop Duppuy, Mr. A. E. Wood, Mr. G. P. de Martin (Director of Education), Father Byrne, Mr. M. K. Lo, Mr. Ho Kow-tong, Mr. Ho Kwong, Mr. Li Yau-tsun, Mr. A. Morris, Mr. M. P. Taksh, Mr. W. B. Flanagan, Professors Robertson, Fild, Rodmond, Ride, Rolley, Forster and other officials of the University.

On arrival at the Bonham Road entrance, His Excellency was met by Prof. Digby and conducted to the new building. The key of the main door of the building was presented to His Excellency by Mr. Tang Chi-ngong, who requested His Excellency to perform the ceremony.

Governor's Speech.

Addressing the audience in the hall, His Excellency said: "Ladies and Gentlemen—It gives me very great pleasure to open to-day this new building, and to thank, on behalf of the University and the Colony, Mr. Tang Chi-ngong for his munificent generosity in giving the money necessary for its erection.

I am sorry that the Vice-Chancellor is not with us to-day, but on doctor's orders he has to take a month's leave to recuperate after his recent illness.

I am sure that all here, like myself, must feel very sad that the late Mr. Fung Ping-shan was not permitted to live long enough to see this building opened. He was in every way a great supporter of the University, and was always convinced that the University's first obligation was to provide facilities for the study of the traditional learning of Chinese. He showed his great interest in this direction in sending just before his death a very useful memorandum for submission to the committee which was appointed some months ago, and to which I will make reference later. Further he contributed over a lakh of dollars for the establishment of a Chinese library which is to be constructed close to this building. I regard his death as a great loss to the University.

I wish to make a brief reference to the history of this building. In 1928 my predecessor, Sir Cecil Clementi, summoned a special meeting at Government House, which was attended by the Vice-Chancellor, Sir Shouson Chow, Dr. Kotewall and others. Sir Cecil stated that he had decided to ask the Legislative Council to make a grant of $50,000 to the Chinese School, but that he could not do this unless some substantial support from the public was forthcoming. It was decided that this support must amount to at least $200,000, plus a building. On the strength of this, largely as a result of the efforts of Sir Shouson Chow and Dr. Kotewall, that sum was collected, while Mr. Tang Chi-ngong generously promised $80,000 for the building. I may say that he has supplemented that gift by a further $5,000 to cover the cost of the nylon at the entrance of the building and other minor works. The sum of $200,000 is being held pending further developments. Government has made an annual donation of $25,000, and a like sum has been entered in the Draft Estimates for 1932. In addition Government made a free grant for the purposes of the building of the valuable site on which it stands.

A Useful Gift.

There is no doubt that this school building is a great and useful gift, but the question of finding the most advantageous place for it in the University machine will require careful consideration. The study of Chinese language and literature and Chinese classics is a most difficult problem, and has caused me a great deal of thought. Unfortunately, I am greatly handicapped by not having a first hand knowledge of the language. In my opinion it is unthinkable that the study of Chinese classics should ever be put on the shelf and neglected. Their ethical value is very great, and their effect in this respect on China in the past is a matter for the student of history. The ethical effect of the present tendency of the Government of China to-day to relegate the classics to the background is still a matter of conjecture. Possibly ethical principles may be inculcated from other sources. Possibly the material advantages of high ethical standards may be realised by practical experience.

The culture and literary style to be acquired from the study of these classics are no doubt of great value, and in the past formed the basis of training for administration. But has not the administration to-day altered materially, and in that event may not the basis have to be modified?

One of the great difficulties in such study is the time required for it if it is to be really effective. A week or two ago I read in a book by Mr. Gull the following words, "The attainment of literary style in its most admired form included not only intellectual gifts, but also manual dexterity of a highly artistic character, and the time and effort necessary for attainment diverted both energy and imagination from practical affairs." In fact to attain the highest standard requires a full time study, and that is difficult in these modern materialistic days. The pace of the world has increased enormously—a thing which I personally deplore—but it is very unlikely that we shall see it slowing down. It has been stated that China's relegation of its classics to the background is a temporary affair of to-day, and that when peace and order are restored, China will again turn to its classics. It is a matter on which I should hesitate to give an opinion; but it is usually very difficult to put the clock back. Some hundreds of years ago a Chinese Emperor tried to abolish learning by burning the books of the scholars, but learning was not so easily destroyed. It is possible that the Chinese classics and all that they stand for will one day regain the high position which they have held in the past.

University's Bounden Duty.

However, be that as it may, there can be no doubt that it is the bounden moral and statutory duty of Hongkong University to afford proper facilities for the study of Chinese language and literature. How best to provide them and make it a live thing both in itself and in relation to modern problems in China, without at the same time imposing any undue handicap on those students who seek a directly practical education, e.g. in medicine and science, with a view to livelihood, is one of the most difficult problems in education here to-day. The University Court has appointed a committee to advise it in regard to this matter, and I look forward to their proposals. Mr. Tang Chi-ngong has, I am glad to say, taken a broad view, and has agreed to (Continued on Page 11.)

Heart of Liane

by MABEL McELLIOTT

MEET HERE TO-DAY.

Liane Barrett, 18, and beautiful, tried to vain to forget Van Robard, wealthy role player, when his engagement to her sister, Mrs. Liane Barrett, was announced. Liane's mother, Mrs. Barrett, is an actress and it is during Cass' engagement in stock at the fashionable Long Island summer colony that the Barrett meet Mrs. Cleopatra, wealthy widow. When Cass goes on tour in the fall Liane becomes Mrs. Cleopatra's social secretary. Clive Cleopatra, the widow's only son, asks Liane to marry him. Clive can not inherit his father's fortune unless he marries before he is 25. Liane accepts, saving the marriage is to be a matter of form only.

Robard, whose moods are changeable, asks her to break the engagement and Liane refuses. Treason Lord and her sister, Mrs. Amberson, come to visit the Cleopatras and Treason, who wants to marry Clive, begins to make trouble for Liane. She convinces with a gang of blackmailers but a friendly police lieutenant, Shane McDermid, intervenes. At the fashionable hotel ball Liane is kidnapped in a bid for ransom, but is rescued by McDermid and Clive.

The wedding takes place on Christmas day and the couple depart on a honeymoon in the south. News comes that Mrs. Liane Barrett has eloped with Shane McDermid, newspaper reporter. Clive is always kind, but the knowledge that Robard is the man Liane loves drives the two into misunderstandings.

CHAPTER XXXVI.

It was concert afternoon at the Miramar. For want of something more exciting to do Clive and Liane had wandered in and settled themselves to listen. The first part of the programme had been ordinary. A pale young man with nervous mien had played the violin indifferently. Now a girl in a copper-coloured dress got up to sing.

They consulted their programmes. The song was "The Flight" and the words were by Sara Teasdale. Liane closed her eyes. The song tore at her heart. Sweet and clear as the flute notes, perfect and separate as fallen drops of crystal, the words emerged from the background of the accompaniment.

"Look back with longing eyes, and know that I will follow. Lift me up in your love as a light wind lifts a swallow. Let our flight be far in sun or blowing rain."

But what if I heard my first love calling me again? "Held me on your heart as the brave sea the foam. Take me far away to the hills that hide your home."

Where shall I reach the roof and love shall hatch the door. But what if I heard my first love calling me once more?

There were tears in her eyes and she did not know. The lump in her throat threatened to suffocate her. She did not dare to look at the man beside her.

He made a sudden movement, said softly in her ear, "Do you mind if we clear out? The air's rather heavy in here."

With eyes downcast she followed him. By the time they had reached the lawn she was composed again. Clive lit a cigarette and gazed out to sea.

"Nice voice that girl had," he said conversationally.

Liane nodded. She had not known what a traitorous—thing memory could be. Half an hour before she would have sworn that she had put Van Robard completely out of her mind. Now memories stung her like whips and the old pain in her heart began to throb again.

"Want to bathe?" Clive asked suddenly, seeming not to notice anything amiss. It was not the hour for bathing but she assented gladly. Anything to occupy her mind.

When she emerged in her white and scarlet jersey he eyed her with approval.

"You've completely lost that prison pallor," Clive said. "I'm glad. I was a wreck when we arrived."

She ran along the sand, reveling in the sun and the blue sky, the perfect weather. Why couldn't she be utterly, completely happy here? She had everything. She was she must be—an ungrateful girl. Spurred by the thought, she exerted herself to be charming. She made Clive laugh. She told him foolish little stories of her life with her mother, of the convent. She thought, "Why, it isn't necessary to cherish that ache in my side. I can forget it if I try really hard."

She wondered why it was so easy for her to talk to Clive. She marvelled, as other women have marvelled before her, at the phenomenon of perfect understanding existing between herself and another.

"I'm going to forget all this nonsense," she told herself resolutely, dressing for dinner that night. She felt suddenly and unaccountably light hearted.

"Everything will be straightened out when I get back to New York," she decided. "I am Clive's wife. How can I even think of another man?" The simple code she had learned since childhood strengthened her. One was loyal in thought as well as in deed. Very well, she would be. There were no half measures in the little world in which she had grown up.

In spite of these brave resolutions, sometimes her heart failed her.

Shall I remember him when I am old? she wondered, feeling her heart beat faster when she saw his name one day in a New York paper. "Will it always be like this?"

Against her will, she felt restless. She and Clive rode, swam, danced together. Clive was all that was perfect. Kind, courteous and amusing. Still they remained strangers. The perfect golden days dawned and waned. Stars rose over a summer sea and a moon like a Balasco backdrop appeared to mock her. A year ago she had been a mere child, light-hearted, unthinking. Now she was a woman, yearning for something—she scarcely knew what.

PRISON TERM FOR GUIMARAES.

NINE MONTHS' SENTENCE A-TRESSIONS.

Found guilty by the jury of obtaining $7,000 from Wong To-po by means of a trick, Leo Arthur da Guimaraes was sentenced to serve nine months' imprisonment with hard labour by the Pulao Judge (Mr. Justice Lindell) at the Criminal Sessions yesterday, the sentence being pronounced in the gathering of a large number of Portuguese spectators. Guimaraes was much affected when the foreman announced the verdict and dropped his head on his hands.

The other man, charged jointly, Kong Sze-yik, was found not guilty and was discharged, but it was announced that he would be arraigned on another indictment at next month's Criminal Sessions.

Before sentence was passed, Mr. Leo D'Almada, Junior, who, instructed by Mr. D. B. Evans, defended Guimaraes, made an appeal for leniency. He said:—The jury have found upon the evidence adduced in this case that the second defendant (Guimaraes) is guilty of the offence with which he is charged, and that verdict I will not deal with at the moment. I wish your Lordship to bear in mind the facts and surrounding circumstances connected with this matter, so far as the actual sentence is concerned.

You must realise that in this transaction he was nothing more than a mere tool in the hands of much less scrupulous people, and for all we know might have had no option but to take part in it, in view of his position in the house and that of his brother as against him.

Career Finished.

There is no doubt that any sentence whatsoever, passed on a man—and that man a European—in the Far East, is sufficient to finish his career here for life, so that, whatever sentence your Lordship passes, however light, it will be sufficiently damning and punishing insofar as the purposes for punishment for a crime are concerned and in my submission the lightest sentence would suffice.

After he has served his sentence his only hope of reform in any decency must lie in some other continent. That, in itself, will be a difficulty almost insuperable, and I would beg your Lordship to take it into consideration.

There is another consideration which, I submit, should weigh with your Lordship, and that is that defendant's brother is already under arrest as the result of a noble effort on his part to save his young brother from conviction. What the consequences of that trial will be I cannot say at the moment, but your Lordship will realise that, in the event of his conviction, the result will be that defendant's mother will be without any means of support absolutely.

I would also ask your Lordship to take his youth into consideration and to pass as light a sentence as your Lordship thinks fit.

No Criminal Record.

In passing sentence, his Lordship said:—I agree with your submission, that it appears almost certain that second prisoner was led into this plot by his elder brother. I gather that he has no criminal record?

Mr. Fitzroy:—Nothing. There is only the accusation of last May and certain incidents of a small character which have been going on for several months.

Mr. D'Almada:—I hadn't heard of any of these latter.

Mr. Fitzroy stated that there was a further charge against Guimaraes but added he thought it likely that, in view of the conviction, it would not be proceeded with.

Yesterday afternoon's hearing was devoted to counsel's final speeches and his Lordship's summing-up.

The Court sat until nearly six o'clock and the jury retired for three minutes to consider their verdict.

Kong Sze-yik was defended by Mr. Hin-Shing Lo, instructed by Mr. J. M. Hall, while Mr. Somerset Fitzroy prosecuted for the Crown.

Guilherme d'A. Guimaraes, brother of Leo Guimaraes, was again before Mr. Williams at the Central Police Court yesterday in connection with charges of larceny by trick of $7,000 and $3,000. Mr. J. M. Remedios appeared for the defendant and applied for a remand and bail. His Worship adjourned the case for one week and remarked that he preferred not to grant bail yet.

WOMEN'S WORLD

FOR OUR LADY READERS.

Latest is Crooning Bracelets!

These lovely, multicoloured glass bracelets come from the South Seas, with a history as romantic as the islands themselves. Not only are they picturesque, but they produce a restful, crooning sound that is fascinating. By playing on her bracelets like a flute, the Pango Pango maiden calls her lover to tryst, or by another "code" announces to him that all is not well. An American woman discovered these bracelets during her travels last year and created colours and patterns especially suited for wear with pyjamas, afternoon and sport clothes.

A HOUSEWIFE'S NOTES.

A piece of cloth, soaked in paraffin oil, and placed in the bottom of a clock case, will soon clean away dust and dirt from the working parts. The fumes will rise and penetrate to every part, and the clock will not be sluggish in action.

Dip a soft, round brush in paraffin, then hang it in the open air for an hour or so. This will give you an excellent duster for the deeper carvings and crannies in furniture.

Clogged pipes can soon be cleared by washing soda and vinegar. Put a little soda over the drain, and pour some vinegar over it. The resulting effervescence will speedily clear the clogged pipe. In a stubborn case of clogging, use caustic soda and cold water in the same way as the foregoing, but keep your hands clear of the solution.

A wire hair brush is the handiest implement for removing hairs and threads from the brushes of the carpet sweeper.

Neglected dustbins are a menace to health, yet they can easily be kept sanitary and fly-free. Senson a new dustbin in this way—sprinkle some shredded sawdust into the bin, cover it with red-hot cinders, and leave on the lid until the cinders have cooled.

You can lengthen the life of a lustbin by seeing that it rests on four bricks. This allows the air to circulate freely around it, and the outside dries sooner.

To ensure that refuse does not adhere to the bottom of the bin, to this after each emptying—Cover the bottom with coarse sand or dry ashes, then place a fully-opened old newspaper over them. This enables all the rubbish to come clear away and leave a dry surface underneath.

A few newspapers should be burnt occasionally in the bin, to keep it as fly-free and as germ-proof as possible.

BEAUTY HINTS.

[By Alicia Hart.]

Eye make-up changes with the one-eye view of the mode that new hats are encouraging.

If you are to be gazed upon from the profile, it is obvious that the outer corners of your eyes are important.

Well, if they are, making-up so they will be most attractive. With the features high-lighted with the hat sweeping off your face, you must be mighty careful how you apply eyelid shadowing. Smooth it out so that there is a slightly darker shadow on the outside of the eyelid. This gives you the appearance of wide-apart, big eyes.

Extending Brows.

There is a trick you can do, if you have skill, that is most effective. Right at the corner of the eye, prolong it by adding a slight line of colour. It should exactly match your eyelid shadowing. Or it will show. But if you can manage to do it skilfully enough so you won't really see a definite line, there will be a feeling of a well-moulded eye there that is most charming.

Eyebrows need much the same extension at the outer corners. It is simpler with eyebrows. But quite as important that they don't show. Simply rub the eyebrow pencil line in carefully so its colour is left but its marks are gone. That helps you emphasize the clear-cut imprint of your face. And you must try to get this idea of a beautifully sculpted face, if you want to be intriguingly lovely, under the new hats.

There is something inconsistent in using too heavy mascara with the elegant new hats. They seem to call for such fineness in make-up that obvious eyelashes are just not right. If you can bend your eyes so they don't look beaded it's all right. But who can?

Eyelash colouring is much more suited to new styles. Apply it with a little brush made for that purpose. Get the same general tone as your eyelashes themselves. Don't try to change the shade too much or the effect will not be so good.

A New Beret.

A new version of the beret shows the new hat angle: now favoured, the down-over-the-right-eye movement and high-up-in-back. It is of brown felt trimmed with a fluffy feather over the right eye. The band of felt knotted at the back of the head is a new trend in millinery.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 29, 1931.

A REGRETTABLE FEATURE.

One of the most regrettable features of the anti-Japanese disturbances in various parts of the Colony has been the lamentable lack of public spirit shown by the Chinese masses. Again and again, when mobs were either assaulting helpless Japanese or attacking their premises, the crowds standing by were found not only unwilling to render assistance, but in many instances they egged the offenders on, themselves keeping at a safe distance. This is not a new phenomenon, admittedly, for it has repeatedly been seen in times of stress and trouble. It is, however, none the less to be deplored on that account. The pity is that no-one seems to possess sufficient influence or authority to combat this evil effectually. Now that a state of emergency has been declared, onlookers will have to be more circumspect, since they are liable to be called upon to assist in the preservation of peace, and if they refuse, they will suffer the full penalties of the law.

It is obvious, of course, that the Chinese of Hongkong would not have been worked up into the state of foolish frenzy which so many of them have displayed had it not been for the presence in the Colony of agitators. Here again we encounter a factor which has constantly to be reckoned with when trouble breaks out. These agitators are nothing but cowardly scoundrels, who usually make sure of keeping out of harm's way when things begin to get serious. Instances have been encountered in which they make tools of young streeturchins by inducing them to go in gangs to Japanese shops or to Chinese establishments selling Japanese goods, and then stand in the background whispering slogans to those immediately in front, with the result that the youngsters swell the chorus at the top of their voices and in the excitement take a leading part in the demonstrations. It would be difficult to imagine conduct more despicable than this. But these agitators will stoop to anything. Students have also figured in the outrages which have been committed, just as they have now seen fit to make a murderous attack in Nanking on British consulates. Here we encounter Young China at its worst, and we may be forgiven for wondering whether any serious effort is made in schools to teach the rising generation the elementary standards of decent behaviour. If the usual conduct of Chinese students in times of unrest represents their conception of liberty and democracy, it badly needs correcting. Happily, it has been demonstrated in the last few days that there are sections of the Chinese community which are prepared to stand by authority and to render such aid as lies in their power, but the fact remains that these are the few, not the many. Moreover, they run risks in playing the game—a circumstance which in itself shows the extent of the lawless spirit in our midst.

Now that the arm of authority has been strengthened by emergency powers, we hope to see all offenders sternly handled by our magistrates. Imprisonment has few terrors for some of these law-breakers and, in any case, merely adds to the congestion in our prisons. Flogging is likely to be much more effectual, and there should be no compunction in imposing it where the nature of the offence warrants severity. Our main regret is that the Chinese masses cannot be relied upon to do the right thing by upholding authority in these crises. In contrast to this was the splendidly courageous act of a Chinese woman who rescued a Japanese baby from a mob which was venting its fury on the father and mother. Incidents such as these deserve due recognition; the pity is that they are so few and far between.

Gandhi's Personality.

Men are still stronger than measures. Machinery, gigantic though it has become, yields before the power of personality. Mahatma Gandhi, the Nationalist leader of India, illustrates this. Small, thin, brown, wizened by his steadfast adherence to an ideal he has kept the whole world watching him, waiting for his moves, wondering what an effect they will have on world relationships. For months all nations wondered if he would go to England to attend the round table conference. These nations were not so much concerned over the absence or presence of other leaders. Their mission, apparently, could have been delegated to others with little inconvenience. But every man has seen the necessity for the presence of Mahatma Gandhi. Personal attraction, richness of natural talents are not the cause of his tremendous influence. It may be summed up in fewer words. A far-sighted, deep seated loyalty to a conviction. The magnetism of his personality, built on his unflinching devotion to what he believes is right and wise, will undoubtedly have its influence. It is rather worth noting that no man can build up this type of personality, or gain such a wide influence, if he sets out to do it for his own personal advance. He cannot make up his mind that he is going to do something significant. He has to forget himself entirely by losing himself in some great principle. The wisest one is not the point. It is his self-annihilation for the purpose of promoting right as he sees it that astonishes the world. Whenever a people have needed a leader, one has always appeared, ever since the days when Moses led the children of Israel through the wilderness. A good many of them have had to gird themselves with sack cloths and ashes, in one way or another, which is almost the style that India's chieftain has adopted. But it is a fairly safe prediction that none of the old leaders has exerted as much personal magnetism as the unassuming little old man from the East.

The Secretary of State for the Colonies has promoted Dr. J. T. Smalley, Medical Officer, Hongkong, to Senior Medical Officer.

Prof. W. I. Gerrard, President of the Hongkong University Medical Society, will address the society on the subject of "Memorable Periods in the Advance of Medicine" on Friday, October 2, in the Union Assembly Hall at 8.30 p.m.

An Lai, a woman operative at the Tai Wah Knitting Factory at Kowloon City Road, was taken to the Kwong Wah Hospital yesterday in a serious condition resulting from an accident in which her arms were caught in a spinning machine.

The following appointments have been made by the Secretary of State for the Colonies during July and August: Mr. M. H. France, as Reader in History, Hongkong, and Miss M. E. Dow, Miss C. McNevin, and Miss L. C. Malloy, all as Nursing Sisters, Hongkong.

Mr. Denis H. Hazell, Eastern Director of William Sykes, Ltd., is leaving for Shanghai on the President Hoover this afternoon. After a short stay in Shanghai, Mr. Hazell expects to go to Tientsin to play some special tennis matches there. Mr. Hazell expects to return to Hongkong about the end of November.

The motor ship Kanan Maru, which arrived in Hongkong yesterday morning from Dairen, reported that after leaving that port on September 22 she encountered a storm. Another motor ship, the Santon Maru, which arrived in port at noon yesterday, reported that she had encountered a typhoon off Great River Mouth, but successfully rode it out.

LOCAL ESTATES.

MR. A. E. PROBST AND MR. A. SUTHERLAND.

The late Mr. Edward Alfred Probst, retired merchant, who died at No. 14, Hyde Park Gate, London, on April 9, 1931, left local estate worth $262,900, while net personality at home amounts to $73,260 1s.

Re-sealing of certified copy of probate of the will has been granted to Mr. G. G. N. Tinson, of Messrs. Johnson, Stokes and Master, who is attorney for the widow, Alice Probst, of Hyde Park Gate, executrix, and Rear Admiral P. C. Brown, C.B., C.M.G., R.N., retired, No. 21, Supper Hill Terrace, Croydon, Surrey, and Mr. F. Allen, Stanford Place, Faringdon, Berks, executors.

Requests are of a family nature. Hongkong estate sworn at $41,000, with net personality in England and Scotland worth $14,148 9s. 8d. was left by the late Mr. Alexander Sutherland, retired Chinese Customs Officer, late of No. 8, St. Catherine's Place, Edinburgh, Scotland, who died at Edinburgh on August 25, 1930.

Re-sealing of testamentary instrument of amputee has been granted to Mr. M. H. Turner, of Messrs. Deacons, who is attorney for the widow, Christina Sutherland, of St. Catherine's Place, the executrix, and Mr. G. D. Sutherland, son, Secretary to the Oriental Government Security Life Insurance Company, of Bombay, India, the executor.

The will contains family bequests.

G.B.S.'s Paper Courtship.

By ROBERT LYND.

IF a novelist had invented the letters contained in "Ellen Terry and Bernard Shaw: A Correspondence" (Constable, 5s. 6s.), which is published to-day, he would have strained the credulity of most of his readers.

Here we have a 30 years' correspondence between a writer of genius and a woman of genius who lived within a bus-ride of each other in London, who addressed each other in terms of the most ardent affection, and who, nevertheless, passed year after year of this "paper courtship" (in Mr. Shaw's phrase) without meeting.

Ellen Terry was 44 years old and Mr. Shaw, eight years younger when the correspondence began.

Shaw Pictures Himself.

This was in 1892, and they had been exchanging letters for four years when Mr. Shaw proposed to call on her and read "Candida" to her. "You will find me," he wrote, "a disagreeably, cruel-looking, middle-aged Irishman with a red beard." Ellen Terry unexpectedly replied: "I think I'd rather never meet you—in the flesh. You are such a Great Dear as you are!" Accepting the situation, Mr. Shaw wrote:

Very well, you shan't meet me in the flesh if you'd rather not. There is something deeply touching in that. Did you never meet a man who could hear meeting and knowing? Perhaps you're right. Oscar Wilde said of me: "An excellent man, he has no enemies; and none of his friends like him." As to liking, you like your newspaper, and despise it. I had rather you remembered one thing I said for three days than liked me (only) for 300,000,000,000,000,000 years.

A month later he comments her for "keeping out of his reach" because of the fatal fascination he exercises over women. He tells her:

Up to the time I was 29, actually twenty-nine, I was too shabby for any woman to tolerate me. I stalked about in a decaying green coat, cuffs trimmed with the scissors, terrible boots, and so on. Then I got a job to do and bought a suit of clothes with the proceeds. A lady immediately invited me to tea; threw her arms round me, and said she adored me. I permitted her to adore, being intensely curious on the subject. Never having regarded myself as an attractive man, I was surprised, but I kept up appearances successfully. Since that time, whenever I have been left alone in a room with a female, she has invariably thrown her arms round me and declared she adored me. It is fate. Therefore beware. If you allow yourself to be left alone with me for a single moment, you will certainly throw your arms round me and declare you adore me.

Game of Flirtation.

How wholeheartedly Mr. Shaw and Ellen Terry threw themselves into the game of "delicious flirtation" (again Mr. Shaw's phrase) may be gathered from the fact that, during 1896 they wrote to each other every four days, during 1897 every three days, during 1898 every 12 days. Then, writes Mr. Shaw in a note, "in 1929 Shaw married and was presumably no longer wholly dependent on Ellen Terry for his intimate unboresomings."

Mr. Shaw warns his readers not to interpret these letters too literally, or to judge them "according to the code of manners which regulate polite letter-writing in cathedral country towns." "We were both comedians," he explains "each acting as audience to the other, and each desiring to please and amuse the other without ulterior motives or what match-making mothers call intentions."

Mr. Shaw is no Romeo passionately addressing a Juliet when he apologises for the shape of his ears. They are a Shaw speciality. They stick straight out like the doors of a riptych, and I was born with them full size, so that on windy days my nurse had to hold me by the waistband to prevent my being blown away when the wind caught them.

Similarly, when Ellen Terry ends a letter: "Dear fellow, Good-bye, on each of your fingers, good-bye, and at the end of your little nose, good-bye;" or: "Give my love to every bit of you, Especially the dear old ears. Or, when she thinks she may be going blind: "I wonder if I'm going to be blind. . . . You would come and see me then, my dear, wouldn't you? I would ask you to come and lie to me then and tell me that you love me. You have an ear for music and could make your voice sound sincere."

or calls Mr. Shaw "darling" and "poppot" and send him "a New Year hug;" she is an actress dramatising her pleasure in his epistolary friendship and devotion.

And, sincere as Mr. Shaw's devotion is, he is no love-racked Kents addressing a Fanny Bravone when he writes to Ellen Terry: "I can hear a distant noise like wind in the ferns, which must be stirring up your pores, as they open and straighten to take in the first delicate draught of spring. Oh, if I were in Margate, I would squeeze them all shut again with one mighty embrace. And, again; And now I must do some work. But to sustain me in it—keep on loving me (if you ever did). O my Ellenest—love me hard, love me soft, and deep, and sweet, and for ever and ever and ever."

Preoccupation of Art.

Those letters, however, though inspired by devotion and mutual attraction, are only to a small extent the billets-doux of an extraordinary man and an extraordinary woman. The theatre—especially the conflict between the Etony Irving theatre and the Ibsen and Shaw drama—occupies more space in them than the exaggerations of affection. Still, it is as a more or less artificial comedy of courtship that they are most interesting. And when the comedy was over Ellen Terry wrote what may be regarded as a postscript to it in a letter that ended:

You are a great man.
You are "a silly Ass."
You are a dear.
You are a "worry."
Poor Charlotte!
("That's envy, isn't it?")
Your ownest Ellen.

My love to Charlotte and her husband. "Charlotte" being Mrs. Shaw. And, years before this, Mr. Shaw had explained his attitude to love in a letter declaring that: "I make it a habit, when I get restless over my work, to seize the nearest woman and squeeze all the breath out of her stays," adding: "It is not the small things that women miss in me, but the big things. My pockets are always full of the small change of love-making; but it is magic money, not real money. Mrs. Webb, who is a remarkably shrewd woman, explains her freedom from the fascination to which she sees all the others succumb by saying, 'You cannot fall in love with a spry; and Shaw is a spry in such matters, not a real person.' "Love," he assures Ellen Terry, "is only diversion and recreation to me." It is this candid letter that he concludes with the sentence: "I love you soulfully and bodyfully, properly and improperly, every way that a woman can be loved."

A large gathering of members and friends assembled at the University Union hall yesterday afternoon, when a tea party was held in honour of Mr. A. B. Suliman, who is leaving for Malaya soon. Mr. K. T. Loke, Chairman of the Union, presided. During the course of the afternoon, speeches were made referring to Mr. Suliman's many activities in the Union, both on and off the sports field, and also regretting his departure and wishing him bon voyage. Mr. Suliman was presented with a silver cigarette case from the hockey and football teams of the Union.

"Can you tie that? The big henny can't 'cause I don't talk good English. Me, what's never even been once outta the United States."

PUBLIC MONEY
VOTES.GAOL DIET MORE EXPENSIVE.

Ten votes totalling $148,960 are to come before the Finance Committee of the Legislative Council at its meeting on Thursday.

$25,000 is required for typhoon and rainstorm damage caused in Hongkong by the typhoon of August 1st.

$26,000 is needed for repairs, stores and current for the P. W. D. The excess expenditure is caused principally by the very large increase in wireless traffic, necessitating an increase in repairs, stores and current, and by extra cost of wireless values and stores on account of low rate of exchange.

A sum of $47,000 is requested for subsistence of prisoners. It is explained that a new and more expensive dietary was introduced in the prisons as from December last, entailing additional expenditure. The contract rates for 1930 were exceptionally low, and the estimate for 1931 was based on last year's figures.

the problem between the two countries.

Massacre Denied.

Replying, Mr. Yoshizawa again denied the statement from Chinese sources, of a massacre of Chinese women and children. He regretted he was unable to set a date for complete evacuation of the territories at present occupied. He would telegraph the Chinese suggestion to his government.

There followed a long exchange of arguments between the Chinese and Japanese representatives.

In the end, Mr. Yoshizawa agreed to a meeting of Chinese and Japanese representatives in Manchuria to attempt to settle the difficulties, but he could not accept the Chinese suggestion of adding other nationals to that committee.

Viscount Cecil, the British delegate, clinched matters by declaring that direct negotiations should be commencing without delay. If further difficulties were encountered, the question could again come before the Council.

The President closed the sitting by declaring that he would make a statement to the League Assembly to-morrow. Reuter.

ATLANTIC FLEET
COMMAND.C-IN-C. RESIGNS ON MEDICAL ADVICE.

London, Sept. 28.

Sir Austen Chamberlain, First Lord of the Admiralty, in the House of Commons to-day said that Admiral Sir Michael Hodge, who was in command of the Atlantic Fleet, had been advised by his doctors that he must remain in hospital for some weeks, and that his complete recovery would require a considerable time.

In these circumstances, the Admiral had asked to be relieved of his command, and the Board of the Admiralty had, with great regret, acceded. Admiral Sir John Kelly has been appointed to succeed Sir Michael Hodge. British Wireless.

RETURNS.VISIT TO BALMORAL TERMINATED.

London, Sept. 28.

The King and Queen, accompanied by the Duke of Gloucester and Prince George, left Balmoral by special train this afternoon for London. They are due to reach Buckingham Palace shortly after 8 o'clock to-morrow morning. British Wireless.

LOCAL SITUATION EASIER.

DANGEROUS TYPE OF AGITATOR.

No. 1 Office Boy of Union Insurance Society.

The penalty section in the Emergency Regulations was applied to a case of an agitator charged before Mr. Williams at the Central Magistracy this morning, with putting up a poster, or, alternatively, with having in his possession or control a document calculated to cause a breach of the peace.

The document, purporting to be issued by the All-China Anti-Japanese Committee, urged a general boycott of Japanese goods and a national rising against Japan, one of the exhortations being that "it is better to be a broken piece of jade than a broken tile."

Mr. J. W. Alabaster, in charge of the Book Office of the Union Insurance Society, told the Court that defendant was the No. 1 Office Boy in his Department. He saw him posting the paper on the wall of the coolies' quarters on the first floor of the building at about 9 o'clock yesterday morning.

Attempted to Bolt.

"We took down the poster and after we had discovered it to be anti-Japanese, I told defendant to go to my room and called the Manager. Defendant was told to sit by the desk. After about fifteen minutes, he suddenly made a bolt for the door. We caught him and brought him back."

Mr. H. R. Major, caretaker of Union Building, who was with Mr. Alabaster, corroborated. Witness said he made a search of a room which the defendant occupied with four other coolies, and found a rattan basket on a bed on which he slept. The basket contained some papers. There were other papers on a table.

Mr. L. H. V. Booth, A.S.P., for the Police, mentioned that three draft attempts corresponding to the completed poster were among those papers.

Six Months' Hard.

After some discussion on the particular section of the Emergency Regulations under which the defendant was charged, Mr. Booth applied for a heavy penalty, pointing out that in the position he occupied at the Union Insurance Society, defendant was liable to be an extraordinarily dangerous type of agitator.

The Magistrate passed sentence of six months' hard labour.

RIOTERS SENTENCED AT KOWLOON.

Many Cases Before the Magistrate.

More cases arising out of rioting on the mainland were dealt with by Mr. Fraser at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning.

Sergeant Estall charged a man named Wong Chun-on with disorderly conduct in Nagashing Road on Sunday afternoon. The officer stated that he saw a large and disorderly crowd and with the help of a few men from the South Wales Borderers, he dispersed them. The defendant was among the crowd and was seen waving his fist and shouting "Ta!" He could be distinguished from the others by a bandage round his arm.

Defendant stated that he was in a tea-house and on hearing a disturbance outside, he went to the door and saw people running about. He asked them not to run because they were making too much noise.

His Worship amended the charge from disorderly conduct to one of inciting the mob, and sentenced defendant to six months' hard labour.

Stoned the Police.

Prosecuting a youth named Tse Kau for disorderly conduct, Sergeant Luk testified to seeing the defendant throwing stones at police officers in Nathan Road near Argyle Street at 5.45 p.m. on Saturday. Witness chased and eventually caught him.

Defendant denied throwing stones, saying that he was only taking a walk. Asked why he ran, he said witness chased him and he had to run.

His Worship imposed a fine of $250, or three months.

Another man, Yeung Kai-cheung, charged with the same offence in the same place, was stated to have been arrested whilst in the act of throwing a stone. A police officer said he saw the defendant swinging his arm back preparatory to throwing, when he caught his hand and arrested him.

Divisional Inspector Clark said the demonstration outside the Mongkok Police Station was very serious.

His Worship amended the charge of assault on a police officer and pound sterling, and forcing its value down in terms of foreign currencies, the Chancellor of the Exchequer said the essential steps, already taken, are to balance the budget, to set our faces against any sort of inflationary measures, and to control exchange purchases by persons resident in this country.

It is not desirable to prevent the realisation of sterling assets by foreign holders at a sacrifice if they decide to do so.

As regards speculation, the persons who sell sterling at figures well below its intrinsic value are incurring serious risks, and the remedy will come quickly enough when they begin to make losses.

No New Credits.

In the meantime it is essential that speculative operations should not be assisted by allowing foreigners or their nominees to obtain new sterling credits in this country. In this connection, I welcome the decision of the Stock Exchange Committee to limit transactions to cash dealings. British Wireless.

German Opinion.

Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, in a leader headed "A last Warning," declares that although Great Britain's classical position in international finance has been severely shaken, international finance and banking is inextricably involved in Great Britain's fate.

"Thus the pound sterling again becomes an international barometer; if it recovers, the world will recover; if it continues to sag, the prospects of ultimate recovery of the present system will sag with it. Though the role of the pound sterling is now negative, it is as important as ever, to Germany, to France, to the United States and, indeed, to the whole world."

sentenced defendant to six months.

In another case, a Chinese was heard by police officers to shout "Ta!" in Shanghai Street, at 7.30 p.m. on Saturday. He has been charged and eventually arrested. Defendant had been taken, defendant was fined $250 or three months' hard labour.

Constable Assaulted.

Charges of assaulting an Indian constable in the execution of his duties and of disorderly conduct were preferred against a man named Ho Fao.

Giving evidence, an Indian constable said that whilst suppressing a riot in Mongkok Road near Nathan Road on Saturday evening, defendant threw a stone which struck witness in the stomach. When witness tried to arrest him, he scratched his arm and face and tore his uniform. Sergeant Jessop then ordered the Indian constable to take the defendant to the Station.

Defendant alleged that many police officers struck him for no apparent reason whilst he was sitting outside his house.

His Worship convicted defendant on both charges, and sentenced him to six months on the first count, and $250 or three months on the second, the sentences to run concurrently.

Stone-Thrower Sentenced.

Another man, named Lai Yung, was similarly charged on two counts of assaulting a police officer in the execution of his duties and of disorderly conduct.

Sergeant Jessop said that on Saturday evening when he was in charge of a police picket in Mongkok near Nathan Road he encountered a big crowd which started to throw stones at the officers, some of whom were struck. Witness rushed forward and arrested the defendant, who was among those seen to throw stones.

His Worship convicted defendant on the charge of disorderly conduct and fined him $250 or three months, but discharged him on the first count owing to insufficient evidence.

Two Girls Charged.

Mr. Brett, of the Harbour Office, prosecuted in a case in which two Chinese girls, Mak Lai-fong and Pang King-chen, were charged with disorderly conduct.

Giving evidence, Mr. Brett said that at about 1 p.m. on Sunday he saw the defendant walking in Pilem Street. They went up to a Chinese lady who was holding an umbrella, took it away from her, opened it, and threw it to the ground. They appeared to be having an escort, as four or five young men were following them. The defendants were subsequently arrested.

His Worship convicted both defendants and bound over their parents in the sum of $100 for 12 months.

HOME ELECTION
OUTLOOK.TARIFF QUESTION MAY BE SUBSIDIARY.

LIBERALS OPPOSE.

London, Sept. 28.

Definite indications as to where the Premier stands in relation to a general election, were given to Reuter this morning by the Premier's friends, as a result of week-end consultations.

Mr. MacDonald will not lend himself to the plans of any particular party. There is no longer any chance of his leading an election campaign which contains any blinding programme other than a wide programme concentrating on immediate national needs, and anything in the nature of a full tariff programme will not have Mr. MacDonald at the head. Moreover, unless tri-party support to a National Government programme is forthcoming, Mr. MacDonald will most probably stand out.

The Premier's friends suggest that an alternative may be an appeal for a big, united central bloc, which the nation might be asked to empower to deal with national needs as they arise.

This is interpreted to mean that Mr. MacDonald will make a strong bid for more Liberal and Labour adherents, and if an election becomes necessary and he leads the campaign, his manifesto will ask for a free hand, and will not contain any tariff pledges. Indeed, it may not even mention tariffs.

Cabinet Meeting.

The Cabinet will hold a meeting this afternoon, but a decision is not expected for a few days.

In any case, a dissolution decision would not be taken before consultation with the King, who does not reach London until to-morrow. In accordance with his original plans, the King and Queen will end their holiday at Balmoral this evening, and will arrive at Buckingham Palace to-morrow morning.

Mr. Thomas' Views.

Referring to the political situation, the Secretary for the Dominions, Mr. J. H. Thomas, speaking at Derby yesterday, declared his intention when the election came to test the feeling of his old constituency, despite the attitude the Derby Labour Party had adopted towards him. He said:

"I shall proclaim myself as being as good a Labour man as ever, with a single-minded desire to pull the country through the present crisis. I will stand under the leadership—and he will go to the country as a leader—of Mr. MacDonald. It is important that people abroad should be left in no doubt that the overwhelming mass of this country endorse the action of the National Government. There is only one way of bringing this to a test, and I believe it is necessary at once to bring it to issue."

The Liberal Attitude.

Appropos the general election programmes, the Liberal "Shadow cabinet" after consulting Mr. Lloyd George, has issued a statement opposing an immediate election.

It is understood that while the party is prepared to support temporary tariffs as an emergency measure, they oppose a general scheme of protection.

On Stock Exchange.

The possibility of an early election was much discussed when the Stock Exchange opened this morning, and operators showed a disposition to await developments.

Trading was consequently on restricted lines, but the general tone was favourable and steady. Among foreign exchanges, the Swedish kroner weakened to 17, following Sweden's decision to drop the gold standard, but the Norwegian kroner were unchanged.

Among British funds, Consols rose a half, to 80½, while War Loan lives were steady at 93½. Treasury bonds were half to one point better, but conversion three and a half and four per cent. each lost half a point. Reuter and British Wireless.

USED HIS MASTER'S MOTOR-CAR.CHAUFFEUR CAUGHT AND FINED.

A chauffeur in the employ of Mr. Colbourne Little, of Messrs. Little, Adams and Wood, appeared before Mr. Schofield at the Central Police Court this morning on a summons accusing him of driving his master's car without permission.

The defendant admitted that he had taken the car out an hour and a half before it was required by his master. He said that he had intended making some purchases before picking up Mr. Little.

Sub-Inspector Nicol told the Court that Mr. Little had made complaints to the police that his chauffeur had been using his car without permission. When the defendant was stopped in Johnston Road, the officer communicated with Mr. Little who told the police that the defendant had no authority to have been out at the time.

A fine of $7 was imposed.

Mr. C. E. L. Crist defended a chauffeur who was summoned for causing an obstruction outside Messrs. A. S. Watson & Co., Ltd. In pleading guilty to a technical offence he informed his Worship that after the defendant had stopped, another car parked in front of him. There was already a car parked behind the defendant's vehicle, with the result that he was blocked in and unable to leave. He was only there for about three minutes.

A fine of $5 was imposed.

TENNIS AT CANTON.

HAZELL AND RUMJAHN IN ACTION.

Liguan University, Canton, was the scene of tennis exhibition matches during the week-end when D. H. Hazell and C. A. L. Rumjahn opposed teams representing the faculty and student body of the University. On the whole seven matches were played, the faculty being beaten by 2 to 1, with one drawn, and the students by 3 to nil.

The point secured by the faculty was a doubles, in which Ma Chi-huen and Wong Kuei-chung won by 2-6, 7-5, 7-5. It was a great effort on the part of the Canton couple, for they were considerably down in both the second and third sets, and it was their enterprise and change of tactics that put them through. In volleying and driving they were not the equal of their opponents, and when they discovered this they began to hit short ones over the net with plenty of lobbing.

In the singles, Rumjahn overcame Ma, who is holder of the singles title in Canton. Ma concentrated on a chop stroke in the first set, and almost succeeded in annexing it but by careful placements Rumjahn forced him out. The second set was a fairly easy one for Rumjahn, who drove hard to both corners. In the third match of the day, darkness interrupted play when Hongkong led 6-2, and 4-1 in the second.

On Sunday, Sunday found the students on the courts in full force. They were unable, however, to make very much of an impression against the visitors, mainly due to lack of experience and court-craft. Hazell defeated Ma Chuen-chung by 6-1, 6-1, while Rumjahn won from Au Wang Yan, 6-2, 6-3. In the doubles, Ma and Au took four games in the first set, but lost the other at love.

In a return match against Ma and Wong, Rumjahn and Hazell played a hard-hitting game throughout, to avenge their defeat of the previous day winning by 6-1, 6-4.

MRS. WILLS-MOODY.

SAILING FOR SHANGHAI ON PRESIDENT COOLIDGE.

Mrs. Wills-Moody, the world's leading lady tennis player, is definitely coming East.

She has booked an outward bound passage from San Francisco on board the President Coolidge, and is due to arrive in Shanghai sometime in November.

If she continues her journey south, she will probably arrive in Hongkong either at the end of November or early in December, and it is anticipated that the Hongkong L.T.A. will make endeavours to persuade her to appear in exhibition matches.

GOLF
as the STARS play it

Can you give me any suggestion for playing in a gale?

Few golfers enjoy playing on a windy day. A majority blame every little misdeed on the wind, whether or not the wind affects their game. The truth is that many of them are panicky before they ever start to play on a windy day.

Bobby Jones offers some good advice for those who encounter stiff winds on the fairways. He suggests that the backswing be curtailed and the ball be hit less viciously. With a short, compact swing, the golfer is less likely to err. In a gale the ball must be more accurately struck, for any mistake will be magnified by the wind.—ART KRENEZ.

PEACE MISSION ARRIVES.

GEN. CHEN MING-SHU IN HONGKONG.

High hopes are held for an early settlement of the differences between Nanking and Canton following the arrival here yesterday of General Chen Ming-shu, formerly the Chairman of the Kwangtung Provincial Government, and Messrs. Chang Chi and Tsai Yuan-pel, members of the Nanking Central Political Council and Central Kuomintang Supervisory Committee, who are representing General Chiang Kai-shek as delegates to negotiate with the Southern leaders in Canton. The party came down from Shanghai on the a.s. Tjandane.

It is understood that the Canton Government has appointed Messrs. Wang Ching-wei, Tang Shao-yi, Koo Ying-fan, Sun Fo and Ma Chiao-chang, the labour leader, to open negotiations with the Nanking delegates. A preliminary meeting will be held in Hongkong. On account of his long association with the Canton Government since the resignation of Marshal Li Ching-ann, General Chen Ming-shu has been most popular with both the political and military leaders of Kwangtung, and it is for this reason that he was recalled from the interior of Kiangsi, where he was directing the anti-Communist expedition, by the Nanking Generalissimo to head the peace mission to Canton. Mr. Chang Chi visited Canton on a peace mission some two months ago. The present trip marks his second venture.

Delegates Confident.

The three Nanking officials and their secretaries are staying at the Peninsula Hotel. When he was seen by a representative of the Press yesterday, General Chen Ming-shu admitted that he and his two colleagues were expecting a visit from Messrs. Wang Ching-wei and Sun Fo some time yesterday afternoon but he considered it advisable that he would make no comment on the terms of the two Governments until he had seen the leaders in Canton. He was expecting to leave for Canton in the course of the next day or two. General Chen Ming-shu's secretary, however, admitted that the Nanking Government was fully confident that the mission of the three leaders would be successful.

Messrs. Wang Ching-wei, Sun Fo and Li Wen-fan arrived in Hongkong yesterday afternoon.

MALAYAN FOOTBALL PLAYERS.

MEET HONGKONG CHINESE THIS AFTERNOON.

A return match between the Malay-Chinese footballers, who are passing through the Colony, and a team of Hongkong Chinese players has been arranged for this afternoon at Caroline Hill commencing at 5 p.m.

It was originally intended that the visitors should meet a combined Army and Navy team but owing to the troops being called out for special duty this match had to be cancelled. Overseas Chinese students of the Hongkong University entertained the visiting footballers at the Union room yesterday afternoon to a reception which took the form of a tea party.

SCHOOL'S LOSS.

REV. W. T. FEATHERSTONE NOT RETURNING.

The Committee of the Diocesan Boys' School & Orphanage announce, with much regret, that the Rev. W. T. Featherstone, M.A., who is at present on furlough, will not be returning to the school. He took up his appointment as headmaster on May 1, 1918, and for the past thirteen years has rendered valuable service to the school during a time of exceptional difficulty.

The transfer of the school from Bonham Road to the splendid premises in which it is now housed at Homantin took place in 1926. Within a year the progress of the school was interrupted through the military authorities taking over the premises for conversion into a hospital for the Shanghai Defence Force, and the school had to be moved into temporary premises. In 1928 the premises were evacuated by the military and once more resumed by the school.

All these interruptions, coupled with the difficulties of the strike-boycott period of 1925-6, rendered Mr. Featherstone's work as headmaster particularly arduous. Mr. Featherstone has laboured unceasingly on behalf of the school and the termination of his connexion with it will be learned with regret by the many old boys who have passed through his hands as well as by the friends and supporters of the school.

Pending the appointment of a successor to Mr. Featherstone, the Rev. H. du T. Pynor will continue to act as headmaster.

TRAIN OUTRAGE.

FURTHER DETAILS OF THE CASUALTIES.

Peking, Sept. 28. It is now reported that 60 are dead as a result of the Jaoyangho train wreck.

Some were killed when the train crashed into the river bed, and others were killed by the bandits, who are reported to have carried off some Chinese passengers for ransom.

There were seven or eight foreigners aboard the train, one of whom, an Indian, was killed, and another Indian was wounded.

Japanese troops and Chinese police arrived on the scene soon after the outrage, and assisted the survivors.

A Shanghai message of September 27 stated:

The Mukden-Peking Railway was the scene of brutal slaughter yesterday afternoon when a large party of bandits, after derailing a train at Jaoyangho, forty-five miles to the west of Mukden as the crowd fled, killed thirty persons, including the driver, firemen and two others of the train. Many more people were badly injured. The derailment was caused by the removal of the rails with the result that the engine and five coaches were thrown off the tracks. The bandits completely looted the train before decamping.

FURTHER LOCAL RIOTING.

SHOTS FIRED LAST NIGHT.

SHAUKIWAN AFFAIR.

Submerged beneath an outward air of resignation to public authority, there appeared to be still a feeling of resentment and antagonism among the Chinese in Yau-mat yesterday afternoon, which gave expression in the form of threats to the police of setting fire to Japanese shops and residences.

One bold attempt was actually made in this direction about noon, when it was reported that fire had broken out in a Japanese flat on the top floor of No. 1 Wai Ching Street. Two appliances from Kowloon and a couple from Mong Kok Fire Stations, the latter under the direction of Assistant Station Officer Cash, rushed to the scene and extinguished the flames within quarter of an hour. Damage to the extent of $100 was caused to furniture, doors and windows.

The premises are owned by the Hongkong Realty Trust Company, but the occupants, a Japanese family, evacuated them three days ago. The police have, as yet, been unable to trace the tenants, and although arson is strongly suspected, it was impossible to make any discoveries leading to the apprehension of the persons responsible.

Later in the afternoon, several threats were received at the station, one being so boldly stated as to name Shanghai Street as the spot marked for the proposed outrage.

Consequently measures to prevent anything of the sort happening were tightened up. Troops were again stationed at various points throughout the district, and the Japs were recalled to their posts.

The Arryls continued to guard the Mong Kok Sub-Station, and police surveillance was further increased.

Kowloon City Incident.

Kowloon City was comparatively quiet throughout the day, the only disturbance being during the afternoon, when a mob attempted to loot a Japanese shop in Chung On Street. The movement, however, was nipped in the bud by the police, who scattered the demonstrators by means of a baton charge.

The Japs are also on duty in Kowloon, a number occupying the station compound ready for an emergency. Pickets were also stationed around the building.

Shots Fired at West Point.

Two further outbreaks, though not of a very grave nature, occurred last evening, and shots had to be fired in each case before the situation was eased. Otherwise the island had little of note; and the mainland was reported comparatively quiet.

The outlying district of Kennedy Town for the first time last night was brought into the area of disturbance, this synchronising more or less with an outbreak which occurred at the other end of the island at Shaikwan (Shaui-kwan).

Indications of trouble were first given about 8 o'clock when wash basins, pots and pans and other household articles were showered from the upper floors of the houses at the Western end of Belcher's Street and Smithfield.

A Sanitary Inspector from the slaughter house nearby telephoned to the police station, and when a police picket arrived it found its coming awaited by a crowd of over a thousand Chinese, obviously belonging to the district, who had gathered within a remarkably short time.

An order to disperse by the picket was met with jeers and laughter, and there were menacing cries of "Ja, ja" on all sides. A concerted move was made on the picket, numbering seven including Acting Sub-Inspector Kirby and Sergeants Hunter and Walsh.

A hail of stones began to fall on the picket, that necessitated repeated baton charges and only had the effect of shifting the crowd to Hanwo Street, where it made as if to offer strong resistance.

Greener Gun Used.

The position became so serious that it was deemed necessary to have recourse to arms; and for the first time in this Colony a Greener gun, expelling multiple shot and exclusively designed for anti-riot work, and with which the picket was armed, was brought into operation.

Prior to this a shot-gun had been discharged, this being quickly followed by a round from the Greener gun. The combined effect of these two weapons was as desired, the crowd dispersing in a minute, including those who had received the discharges.

It was not then known how many had been thus injured, but inevitably the more serious cases went to the Government Civil Hospital to receive treatment. It was then discovered that three women and a man had been injured. The man said that he came by his injury when leaning over the balcony of a house and within range of fire.

The police officers when seen by a Press representative last night, were agreed on the point that the attitude of the mob had noticeably stiffened, despite the fact that it must have been well known to them that wider powers had been given to the police.

In anticipation of an unusually heavy demand for their services in consequence of the shooting, the staff of the Government Civil Hospital remained on duty, and from late reports, a few cases continued to be taken in.

At Shaikwan.

Following the distribution of leaflets earlier in the day, urging a boycott of Japanese goods, a huge crowd of Chinese, estimated to number some 2,000, appeared with remarkable suddenness at Shaikwan last night, about eight o'clock. This is the most outlying district to be affected so far, and the incident was notable inasmuch as though two shots were fired by the police, one of which wounded a man, the crowd continued to battle against a band of Police numbering 15.

Hemmed-in by the crowd, and being subjected to all kinds of missiles thrown from the upper verandahs of buildings lining both sides of Main Street, the Police party had their hands more than full and practically all suffered injury in some form or other. Inspector Peter Grant was injured in the knee.

Finally, in the course of the struggle, the crowd refusing to break up in spite of repeated baton charges, two revolver shots were fired, one of which wounded a rioter. The crowd still remained pugnacious, but finally commenced to disperse.

Meantime an emergency call had been sent through to the Central Police Station as a result of which Police and Reservists rushed to the scene, arriving just as the crowd was dispersing. Troops from Lyemum barracks also arrived on the spot about the same time.

Noticing that the crowd was disappearing into side streets the reinforcements promptly made circuits and cut the rioters off at the other ends of the side streets, where more minor casualties were suffered.

At this stage all signs of further trouble disappeared, and when a S. C. M. Post representative visited the place about an hour later Main Street was practically deserted and everything was quiet.

HEART OF LIANE.

 "Don't worry. You're wonderful. They'll never know if you have a touch of stagefright."
 He thought to himself that she was more composed than many a girl-of-his-own-world. He said so and she was pleased.
 "Do you think so, really?"
 "Of course." She leaned over, impulsively squeezed his free hand. The colour flooded his face, darkened it under the sunburn.
 "Don't do that unless you really mean it," he said.
 She withdrew hastily. "I'm sorry." She hit her lip to keep back the tears. She had forgotten. It wasn't fair of him to say that.

That night they reached Washington just after midnight. Liane was enchanted with the city. From the hill above, it looked like a dusting of stars on black velvet.

Travel-stained and weary, they drew up at a hotel of national fame. Clive's casual inquiry at the desk aroused a bored clerk.
 "Mr. Clive-spaugh?" Certainly. We received your wire."

It was thus everywhere they went. Menials springing to attention. Liane was amused and excited by it usually. But tonight she was too tired. Her head ached. Without stopping to remove her little brown hat she slipped down upon the bed, her fur coat dropping from her shoulders.

"Worn out?" She raised a wan face to Clive's.

He was contrite. "My fault. I shouldn't have tried to break the record." He rang for service. A bus boy came. "Sorry, sir. We're short-handed. All the maids have gone."

Clive shut the door on the voluble boy and his lee water. "I'll put you to bed myself," he told Liane.

She tried to spring up, appalled. "You're ill. Don't be a little fool."

At the words she fell back. Tenderly he took the fur coat from her, lifted her hat. He unstrapped her bag, took from it the fragile, accented night things.

"Lie still, silly." His tone was stern. Liane might have been a recalcitrant child. She was faint with fatigue. Every bone in her body ached. She struggled to rise.

"Really, you needn't bother. I can manage perfectly well myself."

Her head throbbed painfully. There were dark circles beneath her eyes. Clive said, "Don't be a goose. Lie down."

He was unincising her little brown shoes now. Drowsily she felt herself lifted, felt the softness of her saken gown around her. Dimly she realized he was holding a glass of water to her lips.

"Here, take this." He gave her an asperin tablet.

She took it meekly. She slept. Sitting in the big chair, he kept watch over her for an hour. When he was at last satisfied she was quiet he dragged himself, dog tired, to his own room. But curiously enough he did not sleep.

He sat, smoking, brooding, deep in the palm of his big hand angrily against the armchair. His look was that of a man faced with a problem which has no solution.

PARACHUTES PRETTILY PACKED.

You can feel perfectly safe if you ever have to jump out of a plane in a parachute which has been packed by Peggy Bramhall, shown at left. She has been awarded a license as the first woman parachute packer in America.

FURTHER LOCAL RIOTING.

 The name of the man shot is given officially as Chen San, 19 years of age, of 16 Tai Foo Street. He was sent to the Government Civil Hospital suffering from a bullet wound in the left side. His condition was at first stated to be fair, but later inquiries at the hospital elicited the information that he was being operated on, and his condition was considered to be serious.

A Later Affair.
 About 10 p.m. another call came through to the Shaukiwan Police Station and all Police Reservists and officers were rushed to Main Street, where five men were arrested whilst looting some shops in Saiwanho.

The 12th Heavy Battery stationed 32 men at the Shaukiwan Police Station, and these were called out but encountered no trouble.

By 10.45 p.m. things were again quiet, though police pickets were still patrolling the streets which were then almost deserted.

Quiet at Wanchai.
 At Wanchai, last night, all was reported quiet, patrols keeping up their vigilance of the previous 48 hours.

All was quiet at Central last night, the city being practically normal.

Petty Annoyance.
 Annoyed by Chinese living near her who kept on throwing rubbish into her premises at No. 4, Wyndham Street, Miss Takamura, a massage expert, had to summon the assistance of a Chinese constable whose timely warning to the Chinese living in the vicinity prevented further incidents.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Overlooked.

[To the Editor, Hongkong Telegraph.]

Sir, May I be permitted to make a suggestion through your paper in regard to the recent serious disturbances in the Colony and on the Mainland during the past few days. That the Government obtain the names and addresses of all Japanese residents.

This I feel sure, could easily be obtained from Landlords and would help to obviate a repetition of an incident which took place on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Having taken a trip out in my car, we had occasion to stop fairly close to the Telephone Building in Nathan Road. A passer-by approached and informed my wife in Chinese that a family of Japanese were in a house, and had been without food for 4 days. Upon investigation this proved to be correct, so I immediately called a posse of Police and the family of 4, including 2 small children, were removed to safety.

I shudder to think what might have been the ultimate result had it been widely known that these inoffensive people were in residence there—probably another Kowloon City affair, and a further disgrace to the Colony.

The Government could I feel confident, obtain names and addresses of Japanese residents by application to the Japanese Consul, or to the Electric Companies, who keep a full list of members of all Communities consuming electric current.

OLD KOWLOON RESIDENT.

CHINESE STUDIES.

this building being used as the University thinks best, so long as it is for the study of the Chinese language.

Some changes have already been made, more especially in the standard of Chinese required for Matriculation. With such knowledge as I have acquired up to the present, I feel that schools and the University should provide facilities to all students for acquiring a fair knowledge of the Chinese language and literature with a view to expressing themselves in a proper and dignified way in their own language.

Further it is in my opinion essential that the University should provide facilities for such as are desirous of pursuing it, for the wider and more intense study of Chinese classics, and history, philosophy and literature. I definitely feel, however, that this deeper study cannot be successfully accomplished together with the study of such subjects as science and medicine, more especially as these postulate a sound knowledge of the English language. The result of attempting it would be that the student would acquire little more than a mere smattering of both his own language and English, while his chances of becoming fully qualified in the profession which he has chosen would be prejudiced. It is therefore necessary to consider very carefully to what extent the study of Chinese should be compulsory, and to what extent optional.

However, whatever policy is eventually decided upon, there is no doubt that this building will take a prominent place in the University, and we are greatly indebted to Mr. Tang Chi-ngong, and also to those others, who have given material support to the Chinese School, for their great assistance.

In conclusion, I should like to congratulate the architect of this building—Mr. Hall—on his success, both in his design of the building and his supervision of the work. It is very pleasing to think that this work has been done by an old student of this University.

I wish for the building a great future. Understanding and Goodwill. Mr. Tang Chi-ngong then gave a short address in Chinese, after which his son, Mr. Tang Shiu-kin thanked His Excellency for opening the School.

Suggestions which had been made in some Indian quarters that the British Government should arbitrate would, in his view, provide a most unsatisfactory solution.
He was always ready to assist in settle the complex issues which the problem presented.

The Premier, referring to the

that their task was the settlement of the minority question as a whole, and not exclusively a settlement of the Hindu-Moslem question. He added that this is the body before which the final settlement must come, and the suggestion underlying the adjournment is that if there are communities that hitherto have been in conflict, they should use this short interval for trying to overcome their difficulties. That would be an important and very essential step towards a general agreement, but the agreement is going to be a general one.—
